PRESIDENTIAL MANSION.

Graphic Description and History of Its Decoration and Occupancy .- The Last and Present Executives -- Life in Vashington Correspondence Courter-Jour-nat.

Having been for some years familiar with the interior of the White House, I feel disposed to correct some of the gossip which is circulating in regard to its general shabbiness and povertystricken appearance, From what has been printed on this subject the public might well believe that Congress was niggardly in its appropriations for the genteel support of the President and identity. tamily.

The White House--or Executive

Mansion, which is the name used on official letters and envelopes -- is a pure white building of a simple but attrace tive style of architecture. It is but two stories high, with eight or more rooms on each floor. The building is modeled after the palace of the Duke of Leinster. The building is one hundred and seventy-five feet front and pilasters, comprehending two lofty stories of rooms crowned with a balustrade. The north front is ornamented with a portice of four louic columns the Southern Hospital at Anna. The in front and a projecting screen with committee reports the total capacity of three columns. This portion and all ing overlook a beautiful landscape of pleasure grounds, bordered by the silvery waters of the Potomac. The view is a charming one. The entire first floor is divided into spacious vestibules, halls, drawing-rooms, state and family dining room, reception and other rooms. The President's offices, the family linection with their report, submit a bill | brary and bed rooms are all on the sec which proposes to make an appropria-ond floor. What is always styled the East Room is a superb drawing sroom, running the width of the House; it is eighty feet long by forty wide, with a ceiling which clears twenty-two feet. This room was originally in one unbroken space, but as the ceiling was pronounced insecure, though it had lasted from 1800 to 1873, was by order of Gen. Babcock, Commissioner of Public Buildings, stripped to the bare brick walls, and entirely remodeled This was done at an enormous outlay, and the result is one of the most magnificent rooms in the country. It is built of boy having returned to Wyalusing, freestone, painted white, with Ionic were met by our interviewer on Thursday last, and from the latter, and others interested, the following tale was clicited: The first recollection the child has is being with a half breed Indian named Alfred Timberman, who lives near the windows on that front of the build the Eau Galle river, in Dann county. A woman named Mary, the reputed mother of the child, was living with Timberman as his wife. She had two other children, a boy and a girl, called Willie and Emma. She left Timberman, taking the little girl, and shortly after sent a boy after Charley, who induced him to come to Turner's. From Turner's the lad returned to Timberman's; went thence to another halfbreed's named Billings, and from thence to Saville's, Secor's and Turner's again, stopping at each place a short time. These were all halfbreeds, and the woman, Mary, seems to figure in his wanderings constantly. While at Turner's who lives three miles from Downsville, he went to Sunday school once, and a girl named Maggie Cameron was his teacher. He, also, while here, went to a show in Menomence with Turner. Mr. Ross says the lad looks very much like Walter Ross. He states that

Commencing with to-day, there appears to be a deficiency of three months' pay of officers of the navy, and the Navy Department will submit a bill covering amount to the next fiscal year. In addition to the army appropriation bill, for which the session is more especially called, it is not improbable that the President will submit a special message, asking Congress to legis ate upon the balance remaining from the Geneva

Private dispatches from New Orleans to night, state that the publication of the President's letter to the Secretary of War ordering the removal of the troops from South Carolina has almost created a panic in the Packard legislature, and it is believed that quite a large number will join the Nichoils legislature before the end of the week. A Word of Warning to Counterfeiters.

The wide-spread fame of Hostetter's Stomuch Bitters causes a necessity on our part to remind, from time to time, our part to remind, from time to time, whom it may concern, of the fact that imitating sail article is a punishable offence, and we now give this word of caution, that we will most assuredly have all those persons engaged in re-filling our second-hand bottles, selling by the gallon or barrel, or in any manner whatsoever palming off on the public a spurious article purporting to be our preparation, punished to the full extent of the law. We never fail to convict, as the New Orleans and St. Louis court records fully affirm. Penalty for counfeiting, or dealing in counterfeit trademark goods, as set forth in a law recently passed by Congress—"Fine not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment not more than two years, or both such fine more than two years, or both such fine

Township Elections.

The election yesterday called out the largest vote ever polled in Decatur town-1,962. The work of counting of such a large vote must necessarily consume considerable time, and it may not be completed before midnight to-night. Up to the hour of going to press the count has progressed far enough to enable us to give the following figure, which are complete as far as they go: For Supervisor.

Death of M. K. Batch.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock a telegram came here addressed to the ship, the number of votes reaching wife of the gentleman named at the herd of this notice, announcing his death, and also that his body would arrive here on Thursday. Mrs. H., at the time, was absent at Peoria, attending upon her mother, who is very sick in that city, and the dispatch was at once forwarded to her, and she came home to day at noon.

Mr. Hatch, accompanied by his brother, left for Texas about the first of climate would recruit his failing health, which had been gradually getting worse 714 for several years, but the sequel shows that his hopes were not to be realized.

About 8 years since he was elected was elected city treasurer, and was honored to a re-election to these responsible positions at each succeeding election 452 until his death, the last city election taking place but a few weeks ago, at which he received a large majority of township election which took place the day of his death he was not a candidate. Deceased was born in the town of Winfield, Herkimer county, N. Y., De cember 27, 1824, being 52 years of age at the time of his death. He was married in the town where he was born, in 1852, to Miss Mary M. Bahcock, who, with one daughter, survives him. The
